National Trails

National Trails are long distance journeys through some of the very best landscapes the UK has to offer and you can enjoy some of them on a mountain bike or on horseback. They are special – having been designated by the Government and are managed to a set of Quality Standards that set them above other routes. Each trail is looked after by a dedicated officer, often with teams of volunteers, and don't worry about losing your way as the trails are well waymarked with the distinctive acorn symbol. Mae hefyd yn gyfle i gamu nôl mewn hanes i archwilio nifer o safleoedd treftadaeth, ac yn gyfle, wrth gwrs, i ddilyn yn ôl traed y dyn ei hun, y Brenin Offa.

Offa's Dyke Path

Steeped in centuries of history, Offa's Dyke Path offers walkers and adventurers alike the opportunity to explore the breath-taking scenery of the borderlands of England and Wales along its 177 mile / 285 km Path.

From Sedbury in the south to Prestatyn in the north, the Path takes in spectacular countryside views along the way and offers many opportunities, suitable for the novice or seasoned walker.

From the dramatic heather clad uplands of the Black Mountains and the Clwydian Range, to the iconic 'switchback' journey and the hardest days walking through the Shropshire Hills north of Knighton, or experience the peaceful rolling hills of Powys and Herefordshire and the quiet meadows of Monmouthshire.

It is also a chance to take a step back in history and explore numerous heritage sites on your journey, and of course, follow in the footsteps of the man himself, King Offa.

Clawdd Offa

Bu miloedd o weithwyr yn adeiladu Clawdd Offa dros gyfnod o flynyddoedd, ac wrth ddilyn yn fras ffin Cymru/Lloegr, caiff rhai adrannau ei nodi ganddo hyd at heddiw. (gweler y map)

Y Brenin Offa (AD 757-796) orchymnodd ei adeiladu, ac yntau yn teyrnasu dros Mercia ac yn feistr ar ei gymdogion a'i elynion, gan ei wneud yn deyrn mwyaf pwerus Prydain yn y canol oesoedd cynnar.

Y tebygrwydd yw iddo gael ei adeiladu fel adnodd milwrol, gwleidyddol ac economaidd er mwyn rheoli'r tirwedd, ac mae ei faint anhygoel i'w ryfeddu ar hyd yr 80 milltir o olygfeydd hardd o Ddyffryn Gwy i sir y Fflint - ac mewn mannau mae'r mur o bridd yn dal i sefyll ar uchder o 8 metr.

Offa's Dyke

Built over several years by a workforce of many thousands, Offa's Dyke winds through today's Anglo-Welsh borderlands with some sections still marked by it. (see map)

The Dyke was built on the instruction of King Offa (AD 757-796), who ruled the kingdom of Mercia and dominated his neighbours and rivals, making him the most powerful ruler in early medieval Britain.

Likely built as a military, political and economic device to control and dominate the landscape, the Dyke's immense scale can be marvelled along the 80 scenic miles from the Wye Valley to Flintshire - in places the earth bank still stands up to 8 metres high.
